About... Using PC Products

Introduction:

This document provides information about using a WIN/PC computer or PC Emulated software with a Global Village modem for Macintosh.

Global Village modems made for the Macintosh and the Mac OS are made for and supported on the Macintosh and the Mac OS only. We do not sell or provide any software, hardware, support or advice for use with any other platform, whether it be software or hardware.

Examples of this are:

- PC Computers
- PC emulated software (i.e. "Virtual PC" and "SoftWindows")
- DOS cards in Macintoshes

However, just because Global Village does not support these operations, that does not limit the capabilities of the software/hardware. It only means that Technical Support will not have the solutions to any issues that may arise when the software/hardware is being used, because it was not designed for such operations. The manufacturers of the above products may provide Technical Support for their products when used with Global Village modems.
